

Marion A. Brown

1850-1950 Lehi Centennial History

Marion Abram Brown, son of Byron Welman and Josephine Clark Brown, was born June 22, 1878, in Lehi and baptized into the Latter-day Saint Church July 4, 1886. He was educated in Lehi public schools; followed the trade of plasterer, working on many private and public buildings in Utah, Idaho, and California; and owned a farm north of Lehi. March 25, 1902, he married Martha Ann Steele to whom were born Marion, Erma, Vivian, LeRue and Homer. After her death he married Ruby Thornton September 24, 1913, to whom were born Simeon, Clark, Ivan, and Naomi. He died December 2, 1928, at Lehi.

He took an active part in Church affairs, being in the Presidency of Lehi Second Ward Elders' Quorum, and a Ward Teacher; he was First Assistant in the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association in Lehi Ward, a Ward Teacher, member of Ward Building Committee, Amusement Committee chairman, M.I.A. Genealogical Class Instructor, and member of Prayer Circle. He was a member of 127th Quorum of Seventy. He was capable, industrious, hard-working; he was quiet, but a good conversationalist; he had exceptionally good self-control. He was a faithful church member and had a strong testimony of the Gospel, his life having been preserved through the power of the Priesthood. He was a generous donator to worthy causes with both time and means. So loving a husband and kind father was he, that it could be said of his house, There was a real home.
